ABSTRACT

There are approximately 18 million refugees as well as many millions more who have been uprooted from their homes. This 25-minute video is primarily for 14-18 year olds. It is designed to suit the needs of teachers of history, geography, sociology, integrated humanities, English, and modern studies, but it may also be used in adult education classes, particularly for the teaching of English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL). The video prepares young people to live in a multi-racial and multicultural society. The students explore concepts such as human rights, justice, fairness, fear, safety, leaving home, and being a newcomer. It enables students to find out more about current issues such as refugees.
